Planning and Prioritizing

Medium

The ability to create detailed robust plans encompassing milestones (critical tasks), checkpoints, deliverables and dependencies, taking into account both required resource availability and risk assessment. Prioritizing and differentiating between issues that are urgent vs. important and maintaining focus on important issues.

Candidate Feedback

The respondent's score indicates that he may not prefer to give emphasis on planning and is likely to deal with situations as and when they arise. It is likely that he might not have a holistic view of the task thereby not taking into account risk factors/unforeseen obstacles that might arise. Though he may be comfortable in handling crisis, it may result in delayed implementation and affect quality of deliverables.

Decision Making

Medium

The ability to use available information and sound judgement to make effective and timely decisions. Decision making also includes making decisions in complex or unusual situations and implementing decisions with logic and confidence.

Candidate Feedback

The respondent's moderate score indicates that he is likely to make spontaneous decisions. He may not weigh or evaluate all the pros and cons in a detailed or holistic manner. During times of ambiguity, this spontaneity in decision making may sometimes result in adverse consequences or lapses in crucial projects. In an attempt to move ahead quickly the respondent may not spend adequate time in reviewing the consequences before making any decisions. This spontaneous decision making style of this individual may help in ensuring that work progress is maintained, however the decision may not always be thought through or well evaluated.

It is likely that he will show some persistence when faced with obstacles although he may benefit from external impetus or assistance when faced with difficulties. He puts a moderate amount of energy and commitment into achieving goals at work. There may be certain aspects of his role that particularly motivates him to a large extent and it is in these areas that he will be most likely to take an enthusiastic and committed approach to.

Teamwork And Collaboration   Medium

Excellent teamwork, communicate actively, openly and effectively , listen to the opinions and ideas of others and actively share information, work together to achieve win-win results.

Candidate Feedback

The respondent's score indicates that he is likely to have a balanced approach towards collaborating with the team/stakeholders. He is likely to seek opinions/ideas to implement solutions only from certain critical members of the team or stakeholders and may not always seek buy-in from all. He may not go the extra mile to facilitate information sharing and consensus building.
